Abstract: Energy storage is one of the critical supporting technologies to achieve the "dual carbon" goal. As a result of its ability to store and release energy and significantly increase energy utilization efficiency, phase-change energy storage is an essential tool for addressing the imbalance between energy supply and demand.

Air conditioning unit performance, coupled with new configurations of phase change material as thermal energy storage, is investigated in hot climates. During the daytime, the warm exterior air temperature is cooled when flowing over the phase change material structure that was previously solidified by the night ambient air.
